

Foundation grant and computer fundraising support school technology goals

Kalaheo's yearbook class will produce next year's annual on two brand new eMacs. Downstairs in the library, additional access to the computer catalog, online resources, word processing and other software will be available on two new Dell PCs.

A $5000 Foundation grant will purchase these computers and also launches our "Computers for Kalaheo" fundraising campaign to support the school's immediate goal to improve campus technology.

Yearbook: Real World Experience

Yearbook advisor Becky Kam-Locasio expressed total surprise and excitement when she received grant funds. "Right now, the yearbook room has only two functional computers which are over five years old and with SCUSI ports!"

With the new computers, yearbook students will no longer tie up lab computers needed by others. They will learn Pagemaker and Yeartech on computers totally dedicated to yearbook production.

"These eMacs will allow us to keep up with state-of-the-art technology, such as CDs and digital photos," said the advisor.

The yearbook class receives no funds from the state. The yearbook must pay for itself and the staff sells advertisements, senior quotes and signatures, hoping to at least break even.

"We are probably the most 'real world' class on campus; we create, design and improve a product, then market it at the end of the school year," said Kam-Locasio. "Mahalo for Foundation support of the yearbook class!"

Library Technology: Always In ### Demand

"Students are waiting to enter the library at 7:30 every morning," said librarian Martha Robertson, "and many head straight for the computers to write or print a paper, research online, or locate library resources."

The new computers will be loaded up with resources, including encyclopedias and other software the older computers can't handle. "Potentially, every single student in the school will benefit from this Foundation grant. Our computers are in high demand because we're open every minute of almost every school day."

The library experienced a budget crunch this school year, primarily because a new server and two new circulation stations had to be purchased for a major upgrade of the automated catalog-circulation software.

"That's the program patrons use to search the computer catalog by author, subject, or title. Yep, all those catalog cards have gone to recycle heaven," said Robertson.

"We love what computers can do for us, but don't forget to read good books!"

Schoolwide Technology

One of the five Kalaheo Schoolwide Learner Outcomes is that students will become "technologically literate learners who competently use a variety of technologies and appropriately select and apply technologies to learning experiences."

A major and immediate priority is to "increase technology literacy to support a standards-based education."

For several years, the school has been building the infrastructure to support computer technology—installing conduit, laying wire, and purchasing computers when buildings are wired. As the networking project nears completion, more and more classroom computers will be needed.

With the help of alumni, parents and other members of the community, the Kalaheo Foundation will continue to support the school's technology goals.

To designate a contribution for classroom computers, check the "Computers for Kalaheo" box on the membership form, page 7.

1970s

Patrick Chu ('76) is Managing Editor, Bloomberg News, New York. He formerly was Bloomberg's West Coast Bureau Chief in San Francisco; Business Editor of The Oregonian in Portland; and Markets Reporter with USA TODAY. Patrick received his Master's in Communications from American University and Bachelor's in Journalism from University of Hawaii.

Stewart Soon ('76), father of four, "finally" finished his BS in Physics and is in a Master's program while working part-time at George Mason University as a lab instructor and part-time doing research on Nuclear Quantum Resonance. Next year, he'll start teaching high school full-time and plans a move back to Hawaii soon.

Celia Chu Lines ('77) works for Intel in Singapore as a marketing executive. She and husband Vivian, Asia-Pacific managing director of public relations firm Hill & Knowlton, expect twins soon.

Tracy Lee Turner-Pain ('77) is a flight attendant and in-flight trainer for Alaska Air Group. Tracy and her studio musician-songwriter husband have two grown children and two grandchildren.

George Wong ('77) lives with wife Christine and two sons near Tacoma, WA, and is Assistant Fire Chief for Operations at McChord Air Force Base. During his career in Air Force Fire and Emergency Services, he has traveled to Egypt, Saudi Arabia, England, France, Spain, Hong Kong, Korea and, after 9-11, Afghanistan where his troops were constantly under attack by Taliban and Al Qaeda forces. For his efforts, George was awarded the Bronze Star. "I love my job, and I've gained much satisfaction helping people and saving lives."

Robin Cromwell Chase ('78) lives in Jacksonville, NC, and manages two branches of the Marine Corps Exchange at Camp Lejeune. She's been married for 23 years and has a high school freshman son.

Scott Hazelbaker ('78) is the Director of Radiology for Luther/Midelfort Mayo Hospital. Scott and his wife have two children.

Anna Baxter-West ('79) is in Corona, CA, with husband Ed and their three children. She works for Ingram Micro as an Accounts Payable supervisor and is also in a Business Administration and Finance MBA program, graduating this fall. She attended Hawaii Pacific University on a volleyball scholarship, graduating with a BS in Business. Since college, Anna has had many jobs in the finance/accounting management field in Hawaii and California. "Call upon me anytime as I am a proud Kalaheo '79er."

Douglas Holladay ('79) left Hawaii for Leeds, England, on a mission for his church, followed by another year at BYU and a move to pursue an architectural degree, but love and family intervened. Douglas and wife Sandra live in Utah with their teenage son and daughter where he practices architecture, with computer programming on the side. "I sure miss Hawaii and especially Kailua. . . Aloha for now and mahalo for all the great memories. Class of 79 Shines!"

Lori Kats ('79) plays acoustic guitar and sings lead on her first CD, "To Fly," released last March. Hear audio samples at www.cdbaby.com/cd/lkats.

Matthew Murphy ('79) marks 16 years with Matson Navigation in Honolulu where he coordinates a $30 million barge service, moving cargo to and from the Neighbor Islands. He and his wife have a five-year-old daughter. "I'm excited Kalaheo is in the State (basketball) tournament again."

Nalani Wong-Deville ('79), a part-time church secretary, resides in Northridge, CA, and has been married for 13 years to an audiologist. They have two children, ages 12 and 6. Nalani is very involved with the Hawaiian community, sitting as Vice Chair of Operations at E Hula Mau, Southern California's Hula competition held over the Labor Day weekend. She's also Director of Membership in Na Mamo (The Young Hawaiians of Southern California) which perpetuates Hawaiian education among Hawaiians and Hawaiians-at-Heart. "I look forward to seeing many classmates at the 25th reunion in 2004 as well as those at the Class of 81's 25th reunion in 2006."

... Our hearts with you remain.” Kalaheo Alma Mater

1980s

Julie Ann Hales ('80) attended business school in Highpoint, NC, and has lived in California and worked as a purchasing agent for 14 years. “And,” Julie says, “I am happy!” Julie recently spent a couple of hours in the Kalaheo Library pouring over late-Seventies yearbooks in search of high school friends. (Check our Web site.)

Geary Campbell ('82) was recently promoted to Vice President of Strategic Marketing at Dimension Data, an IT services company with U.S. headquarters in Reston, VA.

Steven Loretero ('83) works for a software development company in Hawaii and is the Kalaheo Foundation's Webmaster and a board member. He has two sons, a daughter and a step-daughter, and has been married to wife Mary for about two and a half years. His oldest son is a Kalaheo senior.

Whitney Cobb ('84), married for 16 years, is head plumber for Kamehameha Schools and spends any free time with his two sons—a two year old and a Kalaheo sophomore—and a daughter in sixth grade.

Wesley Michael ('84) writes from a laptop in the desert of Kuwait that he is on deployment in support of Operation Enduring Freedom, lives in Virginia, and is just about to retire from the Army. “Take care and aloha to all, especially c/o 1984!”

Roamy Wills Kilmer ('85), with a nursing degree from San Diego State, is a practicing RN in Tennessee. She and husband Jeff, a Marine when they married, have traveled a lot and have two sons, ages 9 and 7. “I can't wait to see all my classmates at our 20th! Aloha!”

Susan Brogden Coleman ('86) enjoys family life in Washington State with her two daughters, ages, 14 and 6, plus a cat, a dog, three fish and a frog. She is an Administrative Assistant at an auto auction. “I'm interested in finding old pals Missy Dixon and Kawena Charlot. Oh, and would love to hear from Mark Vollemy and Brian McBride.”

Kevin Duffy ('88) is the founder and CEO of a small up-and-coming software re-sell company. “Unlike some of our dot com counterparts of yesteryear, we have a sensible business plan and are actually thriving in the sour economy. Find us at www.DirtCheapSoftware.com.” Kevin is getting married this fall and looking forward to a honeymoon in Hawaii.

Delbert Turner II ('88) is stationed at Schofield Barracks, HI, attending Warrant Officer Basic Course at Redstone Arsenal, AL, to be 918D, Missile Electronic Technician. He and Brenda, his wife of thirteen years, have a daughter Leilani, and son Trey passed away from leukemia in 2001. Delbert is on orders to Korea and then returns to HI for another tour at Schofield.

Lisa Pancoast Conway ('89) works for RF Micro Devices as Senior Printed Circuit Board Expeditor. Lisa lives in Kernersville, NC, with her husband and two sons.

1990s

Tyler Ednie ('90) and wife Maila Spencer ('94) are in Gig Harbor, WA, where he is Assistant Manager at Cycle Gear of Tacoma and part-time student at Tacoma Community College, planning on a teaching degree. Maila is a full-time student at TCC, works for a dentist, and will begin dental hygienist school in the Fall.

Vera Loskutoff Marshall ('90) and husband John live in Napa, CA, where they own Marshall Vineyards and Cellars and will release their first vintage of Juliet Peery in a couple of months. Vera graduated from UC Berkeley in 1994 with a Philosophy degree.

Chris Maas ('91) is production designer for Stringletter which publishes acoustic guitar and strings magazines. He also plays in the band Phenomenauts (www.phenomenauts.com) which released a full-length album last year, with more releases coming soon. Chris lives in Oakland/Bay Area with his girlfriend and wonders, “Whatever happened to the 10-year reunion?”

Noelani Gonzalez ('92) works for the Las Vegas Valley Water District creating content for their Web sites. She will graduate in December with dual degrees in Marketing and Corporate Communications with emphasis on Advertising. She's married to a graduate student in UNLV film college, and they plan a move to L.A. when he finishes his Master's.

Marc Slaton ('92) and his wife have one son, with another due in August, and are moving to Pensacola, FL. Mark attended the US Air Force Academy and was recently flying F-15Es at RAF Lakenheath, England. Mark still remembers his Kalaheo years and

Timothy Chang ('97) graduated from UH, Manoa, in 2001 with a BS in Electrical Engineering and is a system engineer at defense contractor Raytheon. He's currently working on the U-2 spy plane, responsible for ground-mapping radar. Tim is single and having fun in LA.

Mathias Kuntze (exchange student '98-99) starts university in October and wants to teach PE and English. He's still playing soccer and misses Hawaii.

Myah Moore ('99) is Miss Oregon USA 2003 and competes for the Miss USA crown March 24 in San Antonio, TX, broadcast on NBC. She was voted Miss Congeniality at the Portland pageant. Of Korean, Black, Caucasian and Native American ethnicity, Myah is a senior psychology major at Lewis & Clark College and will pursue her PhD in intercultural communications next fall. Since she recently got a scholarship to modeling school in Sweden, she may take that detour along the road to becoming a teacher and college president!

IMPORTANT NOTICE

The Classes of 1997, 1998, 1999, 2001, and 2002 have funds remaining in school accounts.

Class officers must notify the school of their intentions to use these funds for reunions or other class activities.

In the past, classes have also donated funds to the school or the Kalaheo High School Foundation.

It is Hawaii Department of Education policy that if classes do not contact the school within five years of graduation, leftover class funds may be used for school functions.
